	)
Defendants.	)

Plaintiff Julie Keaschall, as Personal Representative of the Estate of Kurtis Keaschall, by and through her attorneys Rembolt Ludtke LLP and Larry W. Beucke, respectfully moves the Court for an Order barring each of the experts for the Defendants, Ben T. Railsback, Joseph F. Rakow, and Anand R. Shah from testifying about or offering any expert opinion regarding Kurtis Keaschall's failure to connect a safety lanyard to a D-ring located on the bucket which failed and the effect, if any, of such failure. The anticipated testimony is both irrelevant and unreliable, and therefore, is barred by Federal Rule of Evidence 702 and the opinions of the United States Supreme Court in Daubert v. Merrell Dow Pharmaceuticals, 509 U.S. 579 (1993) and Kumho Tire Co., Ltd. v. Carmichael 526 U.S. 137 (1999). Such testimony fails to meet the relevance and reliability requirements because none of the experts conducted any testing or examination of the D-ring on the failed bucket, and the testimony of Altec itself confirms that the D-ring was not designed to protect an individual in the event of a catastrophic failure of a bucket.

WHEREFORE, Keaschall respectfully requests that this Court grant this Motion to Exclude Expert Testimony (Daubert Motion); that it bar the Expert Reports of Ben T. Railsback, Joseph F. Rakow, and Anand R. Shah from introduction or discussion at the trial of this matter as it relates to the D-ring; and that it further bar Ben T. Railsback, Joseph F. Rakow, and Anand R. Shah from testifying at the trial of this matter with respect to the failure of Kurtis Keaschall to connect the lanyard to the D-ring and the effect, if any, on such failure.

DATED May 10, 2017.

JULIE KEASCHALL as Personal
Representative for the ESTATE OF
KURTIS KEASCHALL, Defendants
